

JOBS FOR FEES

Jobs for fees is a program created by the City of Jordan Economic Development Authority. Its purpose is to assist existing businesses with expansion and attract new businesses to Jordan whose operations will help expand the City's economy and maintain/grow the City's tax base. Assuming funding is available and the program is maintained, the program will be offered over a five-year period. It uses a two-tiered evaluation process to:

- Determine eligibility for incentive financing; and
- To determine the amount of program funds for which an organization may be eligible.

The City will consider use of the program which demonstrates the achievement of one or more of the following public purpose objectives:

- To retain local jobs and/or increase the number and diversity of jobs that offer stable employment and/or attractive wages and benefits
- To enhance and/or diversify the City's economic base
- To encourage additional unsubsidized private (re) development of commercial and industrial areas

TAX INCREMENT FINANCING

Tax increment financing (TIF) can be used by Cities and Development Authorities to help finance costs of real estate development. TIF uses the increased property taxes generated by new real estate development within a tax increment financing district to pay for certain eligible costs related to the development. TIF can also be used in Minnesota to:

- Encourage Developers to construct buildings or other private improvements
- Pay for public improvements such as streets, sidewalks, sewer and water, and similar public infrastructure improvements that are related to the development.
- TIF Districts

TAX ABATEMENT

Tax abatement is used by Cities, Counties, and School Districts to help finance certain economically beneficial projects. Unlike tax increment, tax abatement can be used to capture taxes on land and existing buildings as well as new improvements. The captured taxes must be used to offset the costs agreed to under an abatement agreement.
